GETTING TO PORTO HELI FROM ATHENS.

Athens International Airport to Porto Heli by hire car / own vehicle.

1. Head towards Attiki Odos (a toll road costing about 3 Euros) and once on it, follow the signs for Elefsina / Korinthos (E94) until they divide into Korinthos and Elefsina, in which case you keep on (left) towards Korinthos (Corinth).
2. This leads to the Ethniki Odos / National Road 8 (Athens-Corinth) where you will pay another toll of about 3 Euros and keep going towards Korinthos where you have a choice of two exits.
3. The first exit, Exit A, towards Epidavros takes you to the Corinth Canal, from where you can then get onto the Corinth-Epidavros (Korinthou-Epidavrou) road for Porto Heli.
4. The second exit, Exit B, takes you under a bridge straight to the Corinth-Epidavros road where you then turn left, following signs for Epidavros and/or Spetses.
5. Follow the signs for Epidavros / Spetses until the signs for split directions (somewhere after Nea Epidavros), then follow the signs for Spetses.
6. Exit on the right, you'll come to a stop sign and turn left under the bridge. After the turn, stay on the right and keep going uphill.
7. Keep going uphill (to your left) at the next junction, about 200m from Traxeia.
8. From Traxeia again follow the signs for Spetses, Porto Heli or Kranidi. After the Lidl, keep right at the junction and when you reach the village of Porto Heli, go around the roundabout and stay on the coast road to reach Porto Heli WaterSports, AKS Hotel or Best Western Rozos Hotel.

Athens International Airport to Porto Heli by sea.

1. Take the X96/E96 bus from outside Arrivals to Pireaus Port. The bus leaves about every ½ hour, the trip takes about an hour and costs a few euros.
2. Once at Pireaus Port you need Gate 9 where there is a ticket office for the Hellenic Flying Dolphin hydrofoil service to Porto Heli. The hydrofoils run several times daily (see <http://www.dolphins.gr> for schedules & online booking).
3. Once in Porto Heli you can take a taxi from the rank at the quay and it is a few minutes drive to Porto Heli WaterSports, AKS Hotel or Best Western Rozos Hotel.

If you would like to arrange for a taxi to collect you, please contact Mario and he will organise it for you.

Welcome to Greece and have a safe journey, see you down here.
